

A CHINAMAN'S FUNERAL.

BURIAL OF A GENERAL OF THE BLACK FLAG IN NEW YORK.

Canned Fruit and Oranges, Roast Pig and Boiled Rice Provided For the Last Journey.

In the rear of James Naughton's undertaking establishment, 35 Mott street, there was a strange and almost unearthly scene this morning, says a recent issue of the New York Graphic.

The face of the dead General was composed, and the body was dressed in the ordinary garments worn by him in life.

A great number of small oblong pieces of cardboard, bearing hieroglyphics were scattered about the dead man's head and shoulders. These were playing cards placed there that the departed might pass away the time during the long journey pleasantly.

At a distance of about two feet apart from each other and in front of the casket were three pine tables. On the first were dishes of candied suits and piles of oranges.

With the end posts well braced there is very little trouble in keeping the wires of the right tension. After the wires are stretched and stapled to the posts, we drive a stake in the centre, between the posts and staple the wires to it.

When we enter these gilded palaces of sin, with their leveled mirrors, their crystal chandeliers and their rare pottery, the first object which strikes the eye is the floor.

Queen Marguerite of Italy has been for some time collecting white pearls, with which, it is said, she intends to decorate the dress of her son's bride.

Feather-stitched tops and platts are the favorite decoration for cashmere dresses for the winter.

Women in Kent, England, surpass the others in the art of writing by two per cent. in Surrey by two and a half per cent. and in Sussex by four per cent.

Many of the winter cloaks combine two materials in their manufacture, such as cloth for the body of the garment, and velvet or plush for the large sleeves and down the fronts.

There is a Countess in London who lives alone except for the presence of numerous cats and dogs which she befriends from time to time.

Professor Lucy M. Salmon, of Vassar College, recommends a domestic polytechnic education for two years to young ladies who are to superintend households.

A WATERFALL has been discovered in the hills of Colorado, which is said to exceed any other in beauty, though not equal in volume.

Keeping Tools.

The following, clipped from Farm Machinery, is applicable to the man in the shop.

Keep your tools handy and in good condition. This applies everywhere, and in every place, from the smallest shop to the greatest mechanical establishment in the world.

I have found my fence of smooth wire and board effective, and cheaper than any other I have ever built, says a farmer in the New York Tri-une.

Who unto him that giveth his neighbor drink that putteth his bottle to him, and maketh him drunken also.—Hab. II, 15.

A Partial Record of These Days' Doings of the Liquor Traffic.

Wm. Moynan, an insurance agent of Brooklyn, fell into the river while intoxicated, and was drowned.

Mary Mahony, thirty-eight years old, was stabbed in the right breast with a pocket knife, in the hallway of her residence, by John Dunn, Dunn was drunk.

Charles Compton, of Buffalo, who had been on a prolonged tour, turned up at Niagara Falls. He bought two glasses of beer and then committed suicide by jumping over the Falls.

Matthew Ash, of Paterson, N. J., showed a pocket full of money in his brother's liquor store. Becoming intoxicated he started for home, and was found in the Passaic River, having committed suicide.

John Kelly, a hired man in the employ of farmer Geo. Kippen, went to Geneva, N. Y., got drunk, came home, and without a word of warning, or any other explanation, shot his employer, Kippen, in the head with a club, killing him.

Henry Koehler, a saloon-keeper of Chicago, who under the influence of drinking men, threw himself into the North branch of the Chicago River. His wife tried to draw him out, but he herself dragged into the river. Both were drowned.

William Brown, a grocer and butcher of Callamar, Ohio, went into his store in a state of frenzy brought on by drink, and undertook to blow up his store and kill himself. Not succeeding in this, he took a butcher's knife and cut his own throat.

As Joseph Kroger, an old market gardener of College Point, Long Island, was quietly crossing the street in New York, he was struck by a horse and thrown down.

Thomas Conway, aged 65, a telegraph lineman of Greenport, N. Y., was a passenger from Staten Island. He was drinking. When the ferry-boat was off Robbin's Reef Lighthouse, for one reason or another, he fell overboard.

A drunken young Indian of the Winnebago Reservation, Wis., murdered a helpless girl at an annual hunting cry. While some of the older men were excitedly discussing what should be done to precipitate the Great Spirit, and thus get better hunting, this young buck jumped into a circle of dancers, seized a young girl by her hair, and threw her into the water. He then bathed his hands in the blood which gushed from her wounds and sneered it over his face.

The Curse of Saloons.

"Down with the Saloons," was the subject discussed by the Rev. Charles F. Goss to a large audience at Moody's Chicago Avenue Church. "The word of God," said he, "speaks in utter plainness to these things. The condemnation of the word of God is specially directed toward the saloon. The saloon, as we now understand it, is the genesis of modern evil. It is the word of God which condemns it, and it is the word of God which condemns the man who keeps it open."

NEWS AND NOTES FOR WOMEN.

Irish poplin will be much worn this winter.

The newest round waists are without a belt. Houston, Texas, boasts a woman dentist.

The cane la Touca is carried by fashionable damsels. Women's visiting cards are to continue square in shape.

Epaulettes still appear upon promenade and dress costumes. One of the best shades is a peculiar color known as steam gray.

Silver gray and green are the prominent colors in the new dresses. The latest fad among fashionable young girls is to carry heavy walking sticks.

Cloth-finished flannels are the preferred wear of women of taste but limited means. Miss Nellie Gould, the daughter of Jay Gould, is probably the richest heiress in America.

There are said to be hundreds of patents on bustles in the Patent Office at Washington. Both large and small bustles will be worn, but the toque of medium size will be the favorite.

It was Mme. du Defand who said women were too imaginative and sensitive to have much logic. High collars of cream or pale flannel, which lie about the throat, supersede the high collar.

Gold and silver embroideries promise to be extensively used in winter to brighten dark dresses. Fifty women and girls are employed as clerks in the office of the Isthmus of Panama Canal Company.

Snake rings, with body of var-colored gold and eyes of blasing topaz, and glittering emerald, are in high favor. Among the new dress trimmings are cords of white and gilt, combined with crystals beads having golden centres.

The Duchesse de Galliera has founded an institution for paying the rent of respectable working people in monetary distress. In London the puffed and slashed sleeves will hereafter be out of fashion. One-the streets plain close coat sleeves are worn.

In Philadelphia the classes in the Industrial Art School number 800 pupils, and the Ladies' Decorative Art Club has 200 members.

The Princess of Wales is more than ever discarding laces, satins and furbles in public places. She dresses with studied simplicity. The Philadelphia statistics show that there is not a trade or profession pursued in that city which is not more or less followed by women.

Some of the new long cloaks for mid-winter which are being made are of fur down the front, and across the long, flowing sleeves.

The young women of Anthony, Kan., spend so much of their time in the saddle that it is said the horses at that place are becoming lop-sided.

Mme. Dieulafay, the intrepid wife of the North African explorer, is one of the latest women to receive the decoration of the Legion of Honor.

Nearly all new winter dresses are made with sleeves in more or less fanciful style, and the fulness around the armhole is a marked feature.

Brushed cloaks for the winter are in very close imitation of those of their older sisters and mothers. Cretonne cloaks for little girls and Newmarkets for misses will be the rule this winter. Plush, astrakhan and beaver are the materials prominent.

Bourette woollens are popular for traveling costumes. These are shown in self-colors, and also with stripes or figures of a contrasting color.

Queen Marguerite of Italy has been for some time collecting white pearls, with which, it is said, she intends to decorate the dress of her son's bride.

Mrs. Luella G. Redell says: "Probably there are more active workers in more organizations in this city (Chicago) than in any other in the country."

Moose cloth is the name given to the camel's hair stuffs which come with improved surface finish, but longer, stronger hairs thrown into the web.

Leaves in conventionally arranged designs are the favorites in the new broads, and every possible leaf shape, from the locust to the tree fern.

Feather-stitched tops and platts are the favorite decoration for cashmere dresses for the winter.

Women in Kent, England, surpass the others in the art of writing by two per cent. in Surrey by two and a half per cent. and in Sussex by four per cent.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., April 10, 1890.

I have received many letters in reference to my testimonials, lately published, commending ALCOCK'S PLEASANT PLEASURES.

I cannot spare the time to answer them in writing, therefore would again say, through the press, that I have found ALCOCK'S PLEASANT PLEASURES invaluable as chest protectors and shields against coughs and colds. Furthermore, I have found ALCOCK'S PLEASURES unequalled for pains in the side, back and chest.

Card of Thanks. The proprietor of Kemp's Balsam should publish a card of thanks, containing expressions of gratitude which come to him daily, from those who have been cured of severe throat and lung troubles by the use of Kemp's Balsam. It would fill a fair-sized book.

PRELIEREES have caused immense damage in Minnesota. Often while thus consulting a physician about functional derangement and preferring to suffer in silence. This may be a mistaken policy in the case of the largely prevalent. To all such women we would say that one of the most skillful physicians of the day, who has had a vast experience in curing diseases peculiar to women, has prepared a remedy which is of inestimable aid to them.
